OUR HOME DUTIES. - We have just emerged from another of those heated political contests which frequently occur in our State, and often leave behind them embittered feelings and personal animosities unworthy of our better natures. The smoke has at last cleared away from the hattle-field, and, in the calm which necessarily ensues after the heat and strife, we are enabled to review the past, perhap rith some regret for the zeal of partizanship, but ever hopeful and sanguine of the future. We to not intend to abate one jot or tittle in-our devotion to the principles we have so strenuously advocated, nor do we feel any less detestation for the miserable policy of our opponen's and the system of tactics by which they have run riot through the and, but there are other duties equally requiring attention, and in the performance of which men of ati classes and parties can harmonize most cordially. These duties are such as pertain particularly to the advancement of our home interests-to the prosperaty of ourselves as individuals and of the community generally-to the increase of our manufacturesthe extension of trade and commerce, and a thousand other things which, though separately trivial, to make up an aggregate that is of astonishing consequence.

Louisville has now arrived at a crisis in her hissory. She is in a position that will enable her to double her population and wealth within a decade. Stable, wealthy, and reliable, her capitalists need in addition to these admirable qualities the infusion of a spirit of greater energy and more decided progress. We possess in our midst, in an nnusual degree, the elements of a vast, influential, and growing city. Nothing prevents our attaining the front rank in the West except that miserable apathy which has here so often blighted enterprises of the most attractive and plausible character. Energetic, united and spirited action is requisite. There must be unity of purpose and concert of movement. As a community, we can hope to accomplish nothing while there remains a feeling of bitterness, of party asperity, and of local jealousy. Work together we may not in the political traces, but all can give a dong, strong, and hearty pull together in the advancement of manufactures and trade. We can unite in building railroads and constructing turnpikes. There can be no differences of a serious nature generated when we are heartily engaged on such labor. We can join hands in the erection of workshops and the peopling of our city with hardfisted, greal-hearted, and useful mechanics. And i such union there is ever strength. To the performance of such manifest and unquestionable duties let us all address ourselves with a heartiness and earnestness of purpose worthy of the pobility of the cause. We shall now have a long breathing spell, in which there will be ample time t) restore all confidence that may have been shaken-in which we can cement ancient friendships and dispel whatever unpleasantness the heat and excitement of political warfare may have temporarily

May we not hope that there will be a unanimous expression of opinion in favor of this union of all classes in behalf of the general good. The prosperity of our city should be chief among the dearest Objects of our exertions. All of our interests are at stake in the result. It is a matter of vital moment t) the pecuniary condition of every man, to his social comfort, and to the glory and honor of the city in the eyes of the world. What these home duties are it is needless to specify. Every good citizen thoroughly understands them, and upon their performance every good citizen will euter with cheersis, alacrity, and activity.

The Coroner yesterday held an inquest on the body of Matthias Last, who resides at the corner of Fifteenth and Main streets. He was attacked with apoplexy and died in about three minntes. The deceased was a native of Germany, and leaves a family in destitute circumstances.

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] I AM DREAMING.

BY D. HARDY, JR.

I am dreaming to-night, I am dreaming, And backward my vision is east To the bliss-haunted days that now slumber Away in the tomb of the Past: . I see them in all of their beauty. But see them alone through my tears. And they seem to me now like blest islands
Away in the lone sea of years.

I am dreaming to-night, I am dreaming, I'm roaming the long-ago time, And its air is as sweet and delightful As that of a tropical clime; Many visions of pleasures departed Come over me now as I dream Like the shadows that sometimes in summer Pass noiselessly over a stream.

I am dreaming to-night, I am dreaming. Bright eyes through my tear-drops I see In the pictures of beauty now gleaming Away in the past upon me: And the love-light that from them is beaming, Though saddened by heart-bursting sighs, Seems as holy as bright rays of glory

Gleaming down from God's throne in the skies,

I am dreaming to-night, I am dreaming Of one who is lost to my sight, Who has gone in her angelic beauty
To dwell with the angels of light: O, her voice was as sweet as the music That steals from a lute on the breeze, And her love was more dear than the treasures

I am dreaming to-night, I am dreaming, Am thinking ber spirit divine Hovers o'er me on beautiful pinions To hold sweet communion with miner There is music angelic around me,

I list the symphonions lays, For they come to my soul like the echo Of earlier, happier days. I am dreaming to-night, I am dreaming

Of a glorious time to be, When my spirit will cease its repinings, My heart from its sorrow be free; When my spirit will be reunited With those who have now gone before-What a blessed, triumphant reunion, Away on Eternity's shore. RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., April 25, 1857.

THE EXHIBITION OF THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE We are happy to state that the forthcoming exhibition promises to be much more interesting and extensive than any yet held-fine as they have beenand that the Institute is flourishing in all respects. Members are coming in rapidly, the Library is well sustained, the finances are in a very good condition, and general interest seems to be felt by our citizens in this worthy enterprise.

The efficient and energetic officers, anticipating a great crowd of people, and an unusually large number of articles for exhibition, have enlarged their Hall and made various alterations and improvements. The building is being dazzlingly whitened, outside and inside, it is to be handsomely decorated under the direction of a gentleman of taste; the machinery will be placed in a different part of the honse, and the boiler removed across the alley in the rear of the Hall; an efficient corps of policen:en has been engaged; and, we would not omst to state, the services of Plato's splendid Brass Band have been secured. We have no doubt that this exhibition will do credit to our city, and result in great benefit to it.

We are informed that the Hall will be opened for the reception of goods and the location of space at A. M. next Tuesday, the 11th, and gently hint to xhibitors that they had better be on hand-those ho come first can chose-those who come late may get no place. All who want tickets can get them from the Actuary at the Library Rooms.

New Spurious Note. —A new $10 note on the "Merchants Bank," Baltimore, Md., made its advent in Cincinnation Tuesday. It has for center rignette two human figuress, figure of monster of monster of ton unchanged. Pot and pearl ashes quiet at 43@44s for hoth. Rosin steady. All qualities tallow advanced. Spirits turpentina dull and drooping. Sugar steady. Coffee steady. Rice dull. Tea slow of sale but prices unaltered. standing on Chest, &c., and letter X each side. Geuuine bill has for center vignette a railroad train. This difference will enable our readers to detect this attempt to impose on the public.

THE CROPS SOUTH .- We learn from our exchanges that the recent rains in North Mississippi, North Alabama, West Tennessee, and Arkansas have proven of incalculable benefit to corn and cotton. The corn crop, it is stated, will beyond doubt prove immensely large. Cotton has also improved cidedly, and if the season continues favorable a little longer, will turn out well.

The New York Police Commissioners balloted one hundred and fifty-one times, on Saturday, to fill the vacancy in the Board of Police Commissioners. caused by the resignation of Dr. Draper, without electing. Three voted for a Republican, two for a Democrat, and one for an American. The vote was precisely the same on each ballot.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—On Sunday night a fire. supposed to be the work of an incendiary, broke out in St. Paul's, a small village on the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Railroad, between Greensburg and Shelbyville. On account of the scarcity of water. seven houses-about half of the village-were consumed before the flames were extinguished.

We are constantly annoyed by failures of the Southern mail, owing doubtless to the negligence of contractors. Last night our Memphis papers came through, but the New Orleans, Mobile, and Nashville exchanges failed. All come through by the same route, and the failure can only be attributed to the stage drivers.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river has commenced falling here. Last eve ning there were 6 feet 8 inches water in the canal and 4 feet 4 inches ou the falls.

For New Orleans .- The new steamer E. II. Fairchild, did not get off last evening, but she will positively leave this evening. Her cabins are beautifully furnished, and have every appointment to render a trip on her comforable. Mr. Leydeu takes the best possible care of all who travel on the Fairchild.

The W. A. Eaves is the packet for Evansville today. She connects there with Bowling Green, a regular Green river packet. The Eaves will take freight for Rumsey, on Green river.

The steamer City of Cairo has postponed her departure for St. Louis till to-day. The Yorktown and Princess are advertised for

Cincinnati to-day. The J. H. Done is the packet for Carrollton:

The Northerner will arrive from Memphis to-day, and leave for that port again to-morrow evening.

ROLLING MILL BURNED .- Saturday evening last, as we learn from the Pittsburg papers, the rolling mill of the Cambria Iron Works, at Johnstown, Pa., was burned down. The works belonged to Messrs. Wood, Morell, & Co., and were principally employed in the manufacture of railroad iron. Three hundred men were thrown out of employment, and if the furnaces in the vicinity have to stop, three thonsand hands will be out of work. The property destroved was worth about $90,000, upon which there was insurance to the amount of $50,000.

THE ELECTION.—The returns which we received testerday and last night indicates the success in the Third and Fourth Congressional districts, Messrs. Underwood and Anderson, by small majoritles. The Democrats will have a majority in the lower branch of the Legislature and on joint ballot.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

Boyle Co.—Danville, Aug. 4—The vote of this county stands: For Treasurer, Jones 598; Garrard 359. For Congress, Anderson 718; Talbot 333.

Anderson's majority is tremendons—the largest the county has given to any man for years. G. S. Caldwell, Amer., is our Representative in the Legisture. We think Anderson is elected. It is a little in doubt, however, though not seriously so. Lincoln gives him 451 majority, and Casey 260. Pulaski gives Talbot 193 majority, and Green and Tavlor comhined abont 500. We have yet to hear from Clinton, Adair, Wayne, Russell, and Cumberland. In Adair and Cumberland we look for large gains over the vote of 1855, and expect to hold our own in the others.

Greene Co.—Greensburg, Aug. 4.—Talbot's maj. in this county is about 210. His maj. over Fox was 221. Reports from two precincts in Adair give small gains for Anderson.

THIRD DISTRICT.

Allen Co.—The following is the vote: Garrard 540; Jones 343. Lewis 635; Underwood 433. Anthony 696.

SECOND DISTRICT.

Breckinridge Co.—Hardinsburg, Aug. 4.—All the polls in officially but one, and that has been heard from. For Congress Johnson's majority over Pevton will be about 200. Crunner, for Senate, over Williams, about 340. Jones's majority for Treasurer is 357.

Hancock Co.—For Congress, Peyton 90 maj; Senate, Williams 104; Legislature, Sterrett, Dem., 86. Brunner will be elected to the Senate by a small majority. Barton, for the Legislature in Breckin-ridge, bad no expection. majority. Barton, for the

In Iowa there is scarcely any land for private entry at present. In the Osage, Fort Dodge, and Sioux City Districts, with the exception of some poor lands, there is scarcely an acre left. In the Fort Dodge District a large quantity of poor land has been entered.

In Wisconsin the lands were withdrawn from market for the purpose of allowing the railways to take their grants, and they have not yet been returned.

In Minnesota Territory the lands are nearly all withdrawn from market on account of the railroad grants. In the Stillwater and Sauk Rapids Districts, however, there are a few scattering 40 acres tracts left.

In Kansas and Nebraska the lands are not in market. They are, however, subject to pre-emp-

During the past four months the entries of lands have been mostly confined to the State of Missouri.

Through their intercourse with the Roman and Bysantine empires, some of these tribes acquired a certain degree of civilization. The Sclaves, who made the most rapid advances toward civilization, built the towns of Novgorod (Latin novus bortus—new enclosure or settlement) and Kiew. They were, however, for a long time subject to the depredations of neighboring tribes, and hence it happened that in 862 they placed themselves under the protection of three western chiefs—Rurick, Sineus, and Truror—who came with a host of their countrymen to Novgorod and established three principalities.

host of their countrymen to Novgorod and estab-lished three principalities.

These people have generally been designated as Northmen, though on this point difference of opinion exists among historians, some asserting that they were Germans, and others that they were Scandina-vians or Normans. On the death of his brothers, Rurik reigned alone, and fused his countrymen and the now subjugated Sclaves into one people, whom he called Russian. The Novgorod was in 862 the nucleus of that great empire which may yet, before the year 1862 comes round, attain the end it has so long aimed at—the possession of Constantinople.

DEATH OF COL. F. B. OGDEN .- Died, on the 4th DEATH OF COL. F. B. OGDEN.—Died, on the 4th of July, at his residence, Queen's square, Bristol, England, in his seventy-fourth year, Col. F. B. Ogden, Cousul of the States for that port. The deceased gentleman was the third son of Geo. Matchias Ogden, and was born in Boonton, in the State of New Jersey, on the 31st of March, 1783. He was appointed by President Andrew Jackson, in 1828, as Consul for the United States for Liverpool, where he served for eleven years, and was erpool, where he served for eleven years, and was then transferred to Bristol. Mr. Ogden was one of the pioneers of steam navigation. So early as 1811 he was attracted to it by the successful experiments of Mr. Fulton, and in 1816 constructed the first double engine that was ever placed on board a boat with expansive steam. With the local three equipmed, he was the first to venture on board a boat with expansive steam. With the boat thus equipped, he was the first to venture on a sea voyage; he proceeded with her from New York to Norfolk, in Virginia, and established her as a packet on the James river. In 1817, Mr. Ogden went to England and submitted his plans to Mr. James Watt, who said to him, "Mr. Ogden, I do not hesitate to declare it will make a beautiful engine." During the latter years of his life Mr. Ogden was engaged in perfecting a scientific sounding instrument the combined inventors. tific sounding instrument, the combined invention of Mr. Ogden and Capt. BIG JUMP.—The biggest jump we have heard of recently was made a day or two since by a man who wanted to stop at a station on the Central road who wanted to stop at a station on the Central road that the express train didn't break up at. The train was going at 45 miles an hour—just as the station was passed, the individual referred to rushed out of the rear car, carpet-bag in hand, and jumped. He struck on the ground some little distance, of course, from the point at which he left the cars. One foot struck the ground first, and so heavily did he come down, that the heel of his boot was torn off. His second foot struck twelve feet distant from his first track, and the boot heel was also ripped from his second foot struck twelve feet distant from his first track, and the boot heel was also ripped from his other boot. The man continued his rapid movements, being thrown into all sorts of positions—for some distance beyond. He finally "bronght up" no less than seventy-four feet from the spot where he left the rushing train. On picking himself up, he was asked if he had been hurt, when he answered he did not know, and immediately picking up his watch and a number of his buttons, which had been scattered by the shock, and seizing his carpet-bag, he started off, with his dinner pretty well settled.—New Haven Register. A colored man at the Northern Liberties Market, whose legs have been ent off above the knees, heard a conple of gentlemen commisserating his condition the other day, when he turned from the work in which he was engaged, and said, laughingly, "Why, ge'men, you couldn't do this work widout breaking your backs a-stoopin' down." [Letter from W. C. Bryant.] THE PAUPER COLONIES OF HOLLAND.

HEIDELBERG, July 14, 1857. I have made, with my family, the tour of Belginm

I have made, with my family, the tour of Belginm and Holland, and coming down from Frieslaud by one of the Hanoverian railways to the Rhims, am resting for a few days in Heidelberg. We are the more disposed to suspend our somewhat rapid journey here on account of the heat of the weather, which is very great, one hot day succeeding another, with no interruption from showers, the sky being as intensely dazzling as our own.

While in the northern part of Holland, I made a visit to the pauper colonies of Fredericksoord and Willemsoord, in the province of Oberwissel. Here are tracts of sandy soil covered with heath and shrubs, which, from the time when they were first formed from the bottom of the sea, till now, have been abandoned to utter barrenness. The great calamity of Holland is pauperism, and somewhat more than thirty years ago a benevolent society was formed for the purpose of settling the poor, who had become a public charge, upon the waste lands of the kingdom, with a view of reducing them to cultivation. They purchased a tract of land, mostly uncultivated, in the province of Ober-Yssel, where they made a beginning with some of the poor of Amsterdam, who had been thrown upon the public they made a beginning with some of the poor of Amsterdam, who had been thrown upon the public charity. The colony thus established has now increased to a considerable community, yet it has made, I suppose, as much impression upon the vast mass of pauperism in Holland as the Colonization. Society has made upon the mass of slavery in the Society has made upon the mass of slavery in the United States.
We took a carriage at the ancient village of

We took a carriage at the ancient vinage of steenwyck, and proceeded over a road so sandy that we were obliged to travel very slowly, and rendered almost impassable in some places by an attempt to macadainize it. We passed several confortable looking tenements of the peasantry with little flower gardens in front of them, and at length the coachman said, "We are in the colony."

I could not see that the habitations of the paupers seemed any less comfortable than those of the district through which we had just passed. They were neat brick buildings, spacious enough to contain, besides the rooms for the family, a stable for the cow, a place for the pair and rooms for the family. cow, a place for the pig, and room for the fuel. Near each was a little garden surrounded by a well-pleached hawthorn hedge, and outside of the hedge a ditch; for the Hollander, from mere habit, always a ditch; for the Hollander, from mere habit, always surrounds his domain with a ditch, whether there is any occasion for it or not. Back of the gardens were fields of rye and barley and other crops, and beyond, in places, was a forest of shrubs and dwarf trees, looking like the scrub-oak plains on the worst parts of Long Island; and in places extensive wastes, the like of which is not seen in our country, covered with dark heath of a purple tinge, and stretching out of sight.

The Director was not at home, and we were ac-The Director was not at home, and we were accompanied over the village by one of the book-keepers, who was ready to communicate what he knew, but who spoke French (the only language we understood in common) very imperfectly, and in a low tone of voice. He took us into several of the dwellings. The first we entered was that of a widow from Groningen, who had two or three children able to work at the loom. It was a miracle of neatness. The woman had established in the outer more than the summer kitchen, in which were the pigness. The woman had established in the outer room her summer kitchen, in which were the pigpen and stable, and had made it as clean as the nicest parlor in our own country. We looked into the winter room; it was as nice as a new sideboard just from the cabinet-maker's. She had a comfortable bed in a little closet, after the Dutch fashion. In a room above were the beds of the children, in a kind of boxes on each side. Notwithstanding these appearances of comfort, the woman took our courier appearances of comfort, the woman took our courier aside, and complained bitterly of the hardness of her lot. She affirmed that she was half-starved, and begged him to intercede with the Director in her bebegged him to intercede with the Director in her behalf. When the matter was afterwards mentioned to the book-keeper, he said that there was no end to the complaints of these people, and that the more they got the more they asked for. We went into another house, in which was a good-looking family of both sexes, well-clad, and living in a manner which had every appear: se of thrift. The rooms gluttered with the display of crockery and polished metal utensils, and were hung with cheap engravings.

We were taken to the mannfactory of the village, a room full of loons where coarse cotton cloth is woven by the children between twelve and eighteen years of age, for the Dutch soldiery in the East In-dies. The looms were clashing merrily—the girls, in particular, jerked the shuttles backward and for-ward with incredible swiftuess. "These children," said the book-keeper, "earn a great deal for their families; in fact, those who come to our colony must ither week are traver, if they are destinately idle either work or starve; if they are obstinately idle, they get nothing to eat."

We were shown the school-house, a building with two spacious rooms, in which the children were taught according to the liberal system of public education established in Holland. The school had been suspended for a while, as the building was na-dergoing repairs. Religious teachers are provided for the colony—a Protestant, a Catholic, and a Jew-ish Rabbi. The colonists receive copper and iron tokens for their labor, and this forms the money of the colony. With these they purchase the necessatle colony. With these they purchase the necessaries for which they have occasion from the magazines of the colony, where everything is sold but intoxicating liquors, the sale of which is forbidden. I could obtain no exact information of the profit or loss of this enterprise. "These people," said the book-keeper, "cost the society a great deal. They come from the cities unaccustomed to the work we require of them, and often with families of very young children, who are of too tender an age to work. They must be subsisted and their subsiswork.

work. They must be subsisted, and their subsis-tence is a heavy charge."

There are now about four hundred families in the colony, numbering two thousand six hundred persons. To prevent the excessive growth of the community, and to confine the operations of the institution to their original object, all the young, on reaching the age of twenty, are obliged to leave it, as well as all the young who marry.

"A CITY WITHOUT A LAWYER .- Dubuque, Iowa, is unblessed by the presence of a single lawyer."
We denounce this as a trick of the Western railroads to swell their August receipts beyond all pre-

An American gentleman, having seated himself in a London omnibus, saw and heard what not a little amused him. A man, bearing no particular marks of authority, looked in the door, took a professional view of the passengers, and called out to the driver, without any pretence at modest concealment of his thoughts: "You can't go on, there's two of the swell mob in here." The coach waited, two or the swell moor in here." The coach waited, till at length a pursy, well-looking old man rose and stepped out, saying, as he did so: "I've too much money with me to ride with pickpockets." In a moment more a spruce young individual said, as he decamped, "I'll followed that old gentleman's lead." "Go on, now," said the detective policeman, "the swells have got out!" swells have got out!"

A Fair Ilit.—A book agent calling on a gentleman in Wilkinson county, a few days since, to solicit a subscription for a book soon to be published in New York, "No, sir!" said the planter, "I do not want a book from that abolition hole. I would not have it at any price!" "Very well," said the agent, "I can suit yon! Here, sir, is a book published in Boston. As Mississippi gets her code printed there, you cannot, of conrse, object to my books!" We believe our planting friend came down and took both the books, one from New York and the other from Boston.—Natchez (Miss.) Free Trader.

Having been summoned by the Queen to appear at Windsor Castle, and enact with the corps of literary the spians, the new play of Wilk'e Collins, of the "Frozen Deep," Charles Dicken sreplied that he was ready to do so if the Queen was willing to receive himself and companions as guests, on the same footing with other visitors to the castle, but that he declined to go under any other circumstances.

Near Edith, S. C., a crop is about to be gathered of four acres of sunflowers. The seed will be used for oil, and to feed cattle and poultry, as in the south of France; but the chief object is to obtain the fibres of the stalks for paper making. If the cultivation succeeds, it is expected to supply abundant materials for fine writing and printing paper, as well as fine and coarse for paper hanging.

ENGLISH WEALTH AND LUXUMOUSNESS — Some of our new York Fifth avenue swells make very respectable attempts to do the "palatial" in their houses and style of living, and put forth ambitious efforts to imitate the English country seats, in the possession of what the English would call a "snug box" on the Hudson river, and ten, twenty, or a hundred acres. An account before us of the luxurious style of living among the English aristocracy throws our parvenue pretenders into the shade.

About sixty miles from London is the estate of the Earl of Spencer, which comprises ten thousand acres, divided into parks, meadows, pastures, woods, and gardens. His library contains fifty thousand volumes, and is said to be the finest private library in the world. The Duke of Richmond's home farm contains twenty-three thousand acres, or over thirty five square-miles, and this in crowded England, which has in all an area of 50,000 square miles or just thirty-two millions of acres, giving, were the land divided, but two acres to each inhabitant. The residence of the Duke is fitted up with oriental magnificence. Twenty-five race horses stand in his stables, each under the care of a special groom. The dishes and plate upon the table are all of porcelain, silver, and gold. His aviary is supplied with almost dishes and plate upon the table are all of porcelain, silver, and gold. His aviary is supplied with almost every variety of rare and elegant birds, and large herds of cattle, sheep, and deer are spread over the immense lawne.

The same authority from which we gather these facts says that the Duke of Devonshire's palace, at Chatsworth, excels in magnificence any other in the kingdom. He spends the whole of his enormous income. In the grounds about the house are kept four hundred head of cattle and fourteen hundred deer. The kitchen garden contains twelve acres and is filled with almost every species of fruit and vegetables. A vect apportune over the stables and the stables are stables as the stables are stables. is filled with almost every species of fruit and vegetables. A vast arboretum connected with the establishment is designed to contain a sample of every tree that grows. There is also a glass conservatory three hundred and eighty-seven feet in length, one hundred and twelve feet in breadth, sixty-seven in height, covered by seventy-six thousand square feet of glass, and warmed by several miles of pipe conveying hot water. One plant is obtained from India by a special messenger, and is valued at $10,000. One of the fountains, near the house, plays 276 feet high, said to be the highest jet in the world. Chatsworth contains 3,500 acres, but the Duke owns ninety-six thousand acres in the county of Derbyshire. worth contains 3,500 acres, but the Duke owns nine-ty-six thousand acres in the county of Derbyshire. Within, the entire is one vast scene of paintings, sculpture, mosaic work, carved waiuscotting, and all the elegancies and luxuries within the reach of almost boundless wealth and highly refined taste. Five-sixths of the soil of England is divided among scarcely thirty thousand proprietors. There are twenty-uine bankers in London, whose transactions yearly embrace six or seven millions sterling. This is one side of the picture. The struggles between capital and labor are fearful—the rich always becoming richer and the poor poorer. Three hundred thousand persons die of famine in a year (?), and three hundred thousand voluntarily emigrate to escape the same dismal doom.—Richmond Despatch.

The new Senate chamber is situated in the centre of the north wing of the Capitol, and is constructed on a similar plan with that of the hall of the House of Representatives, only smaller, being one hundred and twelve feet long by eighty-two wide. This leaves more room in the building for corridors and other apartments. The Senate retiring-room, situated in the north front of the wing, is to be a magnificent apartment. It will be thirty-eight feet in length by twenty-one and a half in width, and nineteen and a half in height. The ceiling is to be of pure white Italian marble, and is to be supported by polished Corinthian columns and pilasters of the same material, with richly carved capitals. The wills are to be of the richest Tennessee marble, set with large plate-glass mirrors, and at each end of the room are to be niches filled with statuary. The other rooms on the north and east side of the wing are designed for private reception rooms for the Senators.

The new ball of the House of Representatives will occupy the centre of the south wing of the Capitol, and will be rectangular, one hundred and thirty-nine feet long from east to west, ninety-three feet wide, and about thirty-six feet high. It will be lighted by sky-lights in the ceiling and a glass rcof, and at night by large chaudeliers suspended between the ceiling and the roof. The Speaker's chair will be situated on the south side of the hall, and the members' seats, three hundred in number, arranged in a semi-circular form fronting it. There will be a continuous gallery on three sides of the hall—the north, east, and west—capable of seating twelve hundred persons, and a separate gallery for twelve hundred persons, and a separate gallery for reporters, behind the Speaker's chair. The walls of the hall, under the galleries, will contain panels for paintings, and, above, niches for statuary. The hall itself will be nearly surrounded by a corridor, affording convenient communication with the postoffice, the retiring rooms, and the committee rooms office, the retiring rooms, and the committee rooms. The public galleries will be entered from a corridor surrounding them in the second story, which will be reached by a splendid stairway. The present state of the work was briefly stated in our issue of yesterday morning. We can but add to-day that workmen are employed in preparing the floor for the seats of the members, in putting up the galleries, and in covering the walls with an ornamental finish of cast iron.—West. How to KEEP Cool.—The King of Siam has in the country, at a short distance from his capital, a pavilion, whither he resorts daily to refresh himself. The building is constructed of pieces of plate-glass of about an inch thick and six feet square. These of about an iuch thick and six feet square. These are joined together by means of a cement as transparent as the glass itself, so that the structure appears to be of a uniform material, without a seam or a joint. There is but one door, which is so nicely adjusted that it can be closed perfectly tight. The pavilion has a wide opening at the top for the free admission of air, while a green silk awning, raised above upon columns of glass, shades the interior from the glare and heat of the sun.

The pavilion is placed in the centre of a large

The pavilion is placed in the centre of a large marble basin, which, by means of an ingenious hydraulic arrangement, can be filled with water and emptied in a few minutes. His Majesty of Siam having arrived, he is borne by his attendants into the pavilion, the door is closed and sealed tight with mastic the order given and in an instant the basin mastic, the order given, and in an instant the basin is filled, and the crystal structure is immersed to within a short distance of its open roof in the cold water. The furniture is, like the building, composed of glass—the tables, the chairs, the baths, and all—so that everything transmits the coolness of the water, and is refreshing to the sight and touch water, and is refreshing to the sight and touch.

Dr. King's Dispensary.

Dr. King's Dispensary.

DR. A. KING, a practitioner of New York for the last thirty years, has opened a Dispensary on Market, bet. First and Second, nearly opposite the Graham House, Lonisville, for the treatment of Private Diseasee, such as Gonerhea, Sphilis, and all diseases of the skin and other de rangements growing out of neglect or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence. All those who may confide their cases to him may rest assured of having the disease effectually cured and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

STRICTURES of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will nindermine the constitution and causes premature old age.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either husiness or society, and causing premature old age.

FF Persons abroad, by writing and stating their cases, with a fee enciosed (post-paid), can have the medicine sent to their address, with necessary directions for using the same.

Corner Main and Fourth sts., Louisville, Ky.

I would respectfully invite the attention of merchants and others visiting the city to my large and elegant assortment of TRUNKS, which I am prepared to offer at least twenty-five per cent. Lower than any other establishment in the city. My stock embraces a greater variety of Trunks than is kept by any other house in the Western country. Many of the styles are entirely new and caunot fail to please those in want of a Trunk both as regards price and quality. The nany advantages which I possess over the other houses in the city, such as manufacturing my own boxes, finishing my own leather, importing my own material, dec., enable me to offer my trunks at much lower prices than any other establishment either in this city or Cincinnati. Merchants and others will be consulting their own interests by giving me a call before making their purchases. Orders promptly attended to. [may 26 d&w]eow&dblr]

POLICE PORCEEDINGS .- Thursday, Aug. 6 .- Wm. Curran and Charles Smith were arrested yesterday by Officer Powell in Gray's alley, where they had been attempting to extort $20 from a washerwoman, alleging that they had left that amount lying on a table in her house. Win. Davis charged them with stealing $20 from him, but it appeared that he was an associate of Curran and Smith, and thereupon was arrested this morning. The court let him off, however, but Curran and Smith were sent to the workhouse for three months as suspected felons in default of giving bail in $300.

James Peoples, Wilson Maples, Henry Oldham, Mary Trainer, Jane Ryan, and Mary King were arraigned for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Peoples and Maples gave bail, Trainer was let off, and Oldham, Ryan, and King were sent to the workhouse.

Robert Biggs, charged with having been a participant in the assaut on Mr. Price, on the day of the election, was required to give bail in $700 to answer

Mr. Porter's majority over Dr. A. K. Marshall is 33.

[From the St. Louis Democrat of Wednesday.] FEARFUL TRAGEDY IN LEAVENWORTH

CITY.

Foul Murder—Confessions of the Murderer—A band of Conspirators discovered—Two of them Arrested and Hung—Great Excelement among the Citizens. Mr. Andrew Stewart, editor of the Steubenville (Ohio) Union, who has lately been traveling thro' Kansas Territory, arrived at this place on Monday evening, having departed Leavenworth City on Saturday night, the 1st, and favored us with the following particulars of a fearful tragedy enacted on Friday night and Saturday morning at that city. The statements of Mr. Stewart are derived mostly form personal checkwarting and may be relied upon from personal observation, and may be relied upon as correct.

On Friday night, the 31st ult., a man named Stephens, living in Kansas City, came up to Leavenworth City, and, while spreeing around, went into a drinking shop called the Ward House. The barkeeper, named Baines, became very friendly, and, after getting Stephens quite drunk, proposed a walk up the river, and took him to a spring on the bank of the Missouri river just above the Planter's House, where they were met and assaulted by two men who demanded their money or their lives. The barkceper, Baines, gave his money up and rau off.

men who demanded their money or their lives. The barkceper, Baines, gave his money up and rau off.
When he got to the lower end of town he gave the alarm that a man was being robbed up the river at the spring. Several parties of citizens immediately went up and arrived on the spet just in time to find poor Stephens crawling out of the river, his body and head all beaten and bruised with stones and clubs and his chest and shoulders bearing several terrible stabs and cuts. The citizens ran to his assistance, but the unfortunate victim, though structure. terrible stabs and cuts The citizens ran to his assistance, but the unfortunate viclim, though struggling to speak, was too far gore, and presently died, without being able to utter a single word about the manner of his death or the names of his murderers. Suspicion at once alighted npon the barkeeper, Baines, and so outraged were the people, and so violent the presumptions of his guilt, that a posso of the citizens at once arrested and held him in close custody. The news in the meantime spread like wildfire all over the city, and the excitement grew intense. An immediate trial of Baines was demanded, and finally it was agreed that he should be hung on the spot, without judge or jury. A rope was procured and put around his neck, and already he was being drawn up to the limb of an overhaug-ing tree, when he expressed a wish to make a con-fession. The crowd yielded and let him down to the ground.

STARTLING CONFESSION. STARTLING CONFESSION.

He said that he and two men, one named John Quarles, from South Carolina, and the other called Knowlton, had laid the plot by which Stephens was robbed and murdered, and that the same men had murdered another man, a short time before, and thrown the body into the Missouri river. He stated also that he and the men Knowlton and Quarles belonged to an organized body of about 25 men, who lived and carried on the business of robbing and murdering in Leavenworth City, on the island opposite the city, and in the towns of Lawrence and Topeka. He then gave the names of as many of the gang as he could remember to the authorities.

As soon as Baines had finished his revelations he was committed to the calaboose, a one-story stone building, about sixteen feet square. The crowd then went off in pursuit of Quarles and Knowlton, and in a short time had them arrested. Among the revealed conspirators was Wm. Woods, the proprietor of the greater part of Leavenworth island, and regarded by his acquaintances as an honest man and good citizen. A party proceeded at once to arrest him, and, after making a thorough search of his house, found twenty-five hundred dollars in counterfeit money, a lot of counterfeiting plates and other instruments, and a knife and pistol belonging to the murdered man, Stephens. At these conclusive proofs of the correctness of the confessions of Baines, murdered man, Stephens. At these conclusive proofs of the correctness of the confessions of Raines, the people were deeply moved, and held counsel together in large and small parties during the whole night.

THE PROCEEDINGS ON SATURDAY - QUARLES AND

We here give the narrative of Mr. Stewart. He says: "I went to the Mayor's office on Saturday morning, and found an immense crowd awaiting the result of the examination of Woods and Knowlton. Baines and Quarles were in the calaboose. While the examination was going on, Judge Lecompte was outside making a speech and expostulating with the angry crowd in favor of law and order. The cry of 'hang'em, the d—d murderers' arose frequently from the mob, but milder counsels seemed to be prevailing, when at once some one shouted, 'to the calaboose! to the calaboose!' and away a crowd of about fifty maddened men started in that direction. BAINES HUNG.

in that direction.

"The balance of the people followed after in smaller parties, leaving Judge Lecompte almost alone and the mayor's office relieved of its throng of spectators. They had been gone about fifteen minutes, when I heard a great yell. I started after the crowd, and followed it to the bank of a creek, which divides south and north Leavenworth, where there was a steep bank, and on its edge a large elm tree. I reached the spot just in time to see Quarles mapended from the tree, grasping in the agonies of death at the rope which was around his neck, while several of the mob were swinging on to his arms and legs to make his death sure. His body had hardly ceased its convulsions, when the shout was raised for Baines.

for Baines, for Baines.

"The rope was placed around his neck, and he was led to the edge of the bank, when some one of the citizens appeared by his side, and with a watch in his hand, demanded five minutes' time for further confessions. They granted it; when Baines said, if they would let him, he would show them another mau in town who was concerned in the operations of the gang. He was then taken to the calabosse, but for some reason did not give satisfaction to the people, and they demanded his body to be returned to them. Judge Lecompte again addressed the perple, and with some effect, for they seemed to divide into two parties, the one clamoring for the hanging. into two parties, the one clamoring for the hanging of the prisoner, and the other demanding a traffer him. Marshal Denis of the territory was also present, and, though he exerted himself with all his power, he could not maintain his position at the door of the calaboose, nor prevail on the crowd to disperse. "The wife of Baines also appeared, and, inspired "The wife of Baines also appeared, and, inspired by the dangerous situation of her husband, took a heroic stand on the entrance, and cudeavored by frautic threats and entreaties to stay the wrath of the populace. But all efforts were unavailing; the peace party were overpowered. Judge Lecompte's voice was drowned by the shieks of the mob. A large piece of hewn timber, perhaps twenty-tive feet long and one foot square, that was lying near, was lifted up by a crowd of men, and plunged with fearful effect against the calaboose door. The sight of the wife's distress and the sound of her screams, mingling with the ragings and shrieks of the infuriated mob, were too much for me, and I turned my back and walked away. I heard another blow from the piece of timber, and a simultaneous shout from the crowd, which told me that the door had given way, and the prisoner was at the mercy of the peoway, and the prisoner was at the mercy of the people.

"I walked hastily around the square, for with all its terror there was a fascination in the sight, and reached the spot just in time to see the mob rushing down the spot just in time to see the mob rushing down the street, with the prisoner, toward the creek and the elm tree. I pursued, and when I reached the spot the body of Baines was already in the air, and his last death struggles were shivering along his limbs. The crowd then appeared to be satisfied. Woods and Knowlton meanwhile had been placed in an omitius and hurried off to the fort. The city in an omnibus and hurried off to the fort. The city continued very much excited up to the hour I left but no further violence was anticipated. Ail sorts of stories prevailed, and many of the mysterious disappearances and robberies which have occurred in the territory are all being referred to this hand of numbers."

murderers. This news is truly startling. We shall await ox-firmation with much anxiety.

ADDITIONAL REPORT.

We are indebted to Messrs. Fitzger 10 and Rv-land, clerks of the steamer Emma, for the following additional particulars of the tragedy derailed above. The statements as furnished our river reporter, is will be seen, show no very material variations from the above report of Mr. Stewart. The only discrethe above report of Mr. Stewart. The only discrepancies are in the names and situations of Quarles, and Baines or Payne, and Knight Knighton, or Knowlton. The following is the statement by the clerks of the Emma: On Friday, the day of the Emma's arrival at Leavenworth City, a man frage Kansas City, named Stephens, came to the former place and presented a check at the bank for $108, and received the money. He was seen to count the money by a man named Quarles, who kept a gambling house in Leavenworth. house in Leavenworth bling house it Leavenworth.

This man prevailed upon Stephens to go with him to a spring of water near the town, and here they were joined by several members of a gang of murderers. Stephens was then murdered, his body robbed of the money, and thrown into the river. Quarles, on reaching town, related the above story, adding also that he was robbed at the same times, but his manner of relating the affair, and several inconsistencies in his statement, aroused the suspicions of the citizens, who took him into custody. A cions of the citizens, who took him into castody. A large party then proceeded to the scene of the marder, where the victim was discovered. Two or more of the gang were at once apprehended and taken into town. into town

One of them, quite a youth, named Pavne, made a full confession of the deed, and also of the numerone of them, dute a youth, handed Payne, made a full confession of the deed, and also of the numerous achievements of the gang. The crowd kept Quarles and Payne, for the purpose of finding evidence sufficient to convict them of the crime. After considerable deliberation and the delivery of a speech by Judge Lecompte, who endeavored to quiet the excitement, the crowd, fearing interference from the troops in the fort, took Quarles to a tree below town, and hung him soon after. Payne shared the same fate. On Sunday, as we pussed down, the ringleader, whose name is Wood, and one Knight, or Knighton, were in the hands of the enraged people, and were to be hung on Sunday afternoon.

Wood was making his will, and his comrade, Knight, was writing a confession. Wood is supposed to be very well off, probably from success in his diabolical undertakings. We did not learn the name of those who were implicated as confe lerated by the youth who confessed.

It is worthy of remark, however, that some twelve or thirteen citizens could not be found when inquired after on Saturday.

CULAR.

New York, August 1, 1957.

The decline in the prices for American bemp, which had been anticipated, was fairly realized during the last fortnight of the past month. It mainly affected dressed, the depreciation in those grades being fully twenty-five dollars per ton, while on undressed it was only from ten to fifteen. The market remains extremely depressed and inactive, in the almost entire absence of any positive symptoms of a revival in the shipping interest.

The month's sales embrace 204 bales undressed, at $170, and a few small lots very choice at $180@$190; also, 367 bales dressed, at $215@$236 for medium and fine; and $255@$236 for extra fine hand-dressed, leaving the stock on hand at present, 506 bales undressed and 779 bales dressed.

There is nothing in the present position of our market for American hemp to induce us to modify the opinion we have so often expressed, that low prices must rule here for all qualities this season. During the past two weeks this opinion has been abundantly verified, and the same circumstance are still at work to continue the results; these are the almost complete prostration of the freighting business, and the importation of supplies of Russian hemp and yarus up to a full average for a brisk season. It must always be remembered that, in ordinary cases, the price of American hemp, in these markets, will be regulated by that of Russian, so that, until a demand springs up for the imported arricle and its prices improve, there is no possibility of any enhancement in the value of American hemp, which still rules high as compared with its foreign competitor.

Mr. Whitty has of iate produced a marked sensation in the literary circles of Great Britain by a series of satirical papers published in the London Times, under the nondeplume of "The Stranger in Parliament," which have gained for him the most enviable notoriety of being one of the most powerful political essayisis in Europe and a satirist of great vigor and strength. This, his first complete work, is work, is

of the most brilliant character, combining a racy expose of certain literary and artistic claques in London, together with a story and plot which for quaintness and interest has been compared to the "Christie Jobnstone" and "Peg Woffington" of Charles Reade.
